Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Friday 28 May 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Becoming fine, dry and warmer this weekend.

This Evening and Tonight:
Rather cloudy for most areas overnight. Early evening rain over western and central parts will fade and becoming patchy, whilst further east a mainly dry night is expected. Milder than last night.

Saturday:
Generally fairly cloudy at first but most areas brightening up and seeing some warm sunny spells. Scattered showers breaking out inland in the north and west later. Warmer than Friday.

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Fine, dry and increasingly warm for many. Mist and low cloud may affect some eastern coastal districts at times, with overnight mist and fog elsewhere soon clearing.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.